Two box culverts called 'unsafe'

County gives permission for beach road repairs

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has authorized its engineer to prepare specifications for emergency repairs to Beach Road.

The board heard a report Thursday from County Engineer Larry Seal, who asked to be allowed to do the engineering work necessary for repairs to the entire road.

Seal said the plans for the entire road would eventually be needed when the Hancock County Sand Beach Technical Advisory Council's Sand Beach Master Plan is implemented.

The board authorized Seal to prepare bid specifications for the emergency repairs, but turned down his request to prepare plans for the entire road.

The emergency repairs will include the replacement of two box culverts, both in Beat One in the Clermont Harbor area.

Seal, who had conducted a visual inspection of the road Tuesday with South Mississippi Planning and Development District Representative Jeff Taylor, said replacement of the box culverts alone would probably cost about $50,000.

The engineer said both culverts have cracks running all the way through them and through the road surface. In addition, metal reinforcements in the two concrete structures have deteriorated, and in some places are hanging down inside the culverts.

He labeled the culverts "unsafe."

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge agreed.

"They're not fit to drive over," Courge said.

The inspection, which covered a section of Beach Road from Main Street to Bayou Cadet, revealed the condition of the roadway and seawall had "no real change" since inspections after two 1965 hurricanes, Seal said.

"We found a tremendous amount of voids under the roadway," he said.

He added that he had talked about the matter with a district engineer for the State Highway Department, and had come up with a cost estimate of about $200,000 including the two culverts, filling voids, repairing some sections of sidewalk for shore protection and putting some type of surface down to protect the road.

He told the board he can start working on specific plans next week.

"We don't see any money coming for the road at all. It apparently doesn't qualify for what we are doing," Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said, referring to the master plan, which emphasizes shoreline protection and recreational development.

"We need to start doing as much repair as we can," he added.

The board asked Seal if he could look into the proposal.

In another road-related matter, the board discussed Texas Flat Road, with parts in Beats Two and Three.

The board has requested that the State Aid Road System and the Federal Aid Secondary System provide BEACH ROAD—Page 5A

TAX FORUM—Some of the 75 people attending a public forum on taxes at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library Thursday listen as Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. explains how a constitutional amendment, increases in school district costs and increases in utility costs have affected commercial property tax rates. Forum calls for task force on redistributing tax burden

BY DENA BISNETTE
A one cent sales tax has been proposed to redistribute some of the property tax burden currently being shouldered by commercial property owners in Bay St. Louis.

The proposal was favored Thursday by Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. at a public forum he called to discuss complaints from commercial property owners who feel their taxes are too high.

Members of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County governments are expected to be included on a task force to pursue the proposal, Chamber President Herbert Dubuisson said.

Frankiewicz reported the one cent sales tax proposal could possibly be enacted through a local and private bill passed by the legislature.

He added the extra penny would raise $800,000 for the city in a single year, enabling property taxes to be reduced.

Property taxes bring in only $400,000 per year at current levels, the mayor added.

Board of Supervisors President A.A. Keller explained that a sales tax implemented through a local and private bill must usually be requested for a specific purpose.

He said such sales taxes are generally used for "something you can't pay."

Frankiewicz stated both Bay St. Louis and Waveland have used such sales taxes before. In both cases, an extra sales tax was added to pay off a lawsuit.

Dubuisson said the Chamber would put together the task force

Bay-Waveland School Board to discuss district facility needs

BY DENA BISNETTE
Two proposals for coping with facility needs are expected to be offered to the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District at a special meeting Monday.

Superintendent of Education Roger Oge said he plans to offer the district two proposals resulting from the completion of a facility needs survey.

He said the objectives of the proposals, which will not be made public until the board meeting, are to alleviate seven major problems identified by the survey, including:

—Overcrowding at North Bay Elementary School, Bay Senior High School and Waveland Elementary School;

—Lack of appropriate climate control at both North Bay and Bay Junior High School;

—A need to place students in leased facilities, specifically St. Rose de Lima Fifth Grade Center, rather than in a district-owned facility;

—A need to plan for future growth and broaden school curriculum;

—A need to reorganize schools in a more efficient manner;

—Deferred maintenance problems that need to be handled; and —A need to make all schools more functional yet inviting places for students and employees.

He added each proposal will be presented with an analysis of its advantages and disadvantages.

Oge said public hearings will be set up so that ideas may be presented by parents, taxpayers and other citizens as well.

Eventually, the district will use the proposals, public input or a combination of both to set up a long-range building program aimed at solving facility problems.

However, the superintendent said he realizes and hopes the public will realize that "no building program will take care of all our problems."

The facility needs survey identified good points as well as problems in all four schools.

The strengths of the Bay Senior High building include a suitable school site; solid building structure; adequate cafeteria, library and classroom size; science laboratory basics; student parking and storage facilities; a large spectator-type gymnasium; and departmentalized wings.

Oge reported disadvantages of the building include lack of a band hall, auditorium, sidewalks and physical education equipment; "profound" overcrowding; poor drainage; outdated student and room furnishings; lack of library books and high technology media; a need to replace the main building's roof; inadequate teacher preparation and lounge areas; and a need for paint and other cosmetic improvements.

In addition, the board will have to consider the fact the structure itself offers little or no flexibility.

The junior high building was found to be structurally sound despite its status as the oldest school in the district and has many well-lighted rooms of adequate size, Oge said.

The gymnasium, cafeteria, auditorium, administration and industrial arts facilities are all of adequate size and most sections have been or are scheduled to have new roofs.

However, there is no air conditioning or flexibility in the junior high building and little or no teacher work room or usable storage space.

The building has no second floor restrooms and some of the existing restrooms have no running water. Facilities, equipment and furnishings are outdated and the library has few books and no high technology media.

The gymnasium facilities were found to be inadequate for physical education programs to be properly conducted and there are problems with noise levels in classrooms located just off the gymnasium.

The report also states that the grounds of the building are poorly maintained and the entire building presents an unpleasant appearance both inside and outside.

Waveland Elementary, the newest building in the district, was cited as having the advantage of the most facilities under one roof, with large classrooms, playgrounds and administrative areas; an in-house stage; climate controls including both heat and air; adequate cafeteria and bathrooms; and facilities for the handicapped.

Even that school has disadvantages, Oge said.

The report states that the playground equipment is inadequate; the school lacks a covered area for physical education classes to use on rainy days and the library does not have enough books.

In addition, the school shares the problems of overcrowding, lack of flexibility and antiquated furniture with other schools in the district and has inadequate parking and storage space.

Physical improvements to Waveland Elementary that will have to be considered include replacement of a 14-year-old air conditioning system and repair of a leaking roof, the superintendent's report said.

North Bay has a carpeted room with facilities for multiple handicaps, air conditioning and carpeting in the library and a large kitchen. In addition, the playground is fenced and the parking lot is paved.

The building's weaknesses include PROPOSALS—Page 5A

Bay mayor to address senate committee

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Mississippi Senate Municipalities Committee is sponsoring a public hearing Wednesday in the State Capitol Building to discuss proposed legislation to modify the existing law concerning the mayor-council form of government.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz will be among those to present information at the hearing. Frankiewicz said he is in favor of the proposed changes but believes some of them should go even further.

For example, the proposed legislation states the council shall appoint a clerk "who shall keep minutes...and perform such function as may be required by law."

"The legislature should specifically enumerate the duties of the clerk of the council and what responsibilities fall under the legislative branch," he added.

Other changes include the council to name an accountant for a yearly audit, the council to act on a mayor's veto within three days and allowance for the council to be paid at the same time all city employees are paid.

Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis is a member of the Senate Municipalities Committee.

Bay St. Louis is one of eight cities in Mississippi operating under the mayor-council form of government. The meeting will be from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the State Capitol.

Port commission to purchase culvert for aircraft facility

BY DENA BISNETTE
 The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission has agreed to supply a culvert for a new facility at Stennis Airport.

The request for the culvert was submitted Monday by Port and Harbor Director James DeBlanc on behalf of Smith and Smith Aircraft.

DeBlanc said Smith and Smith representatives told him that they hope to let a contract for the firm's hangar within the next few weeks.

The commission will purchase the culvert at state bid price and the contractor will install it.

The commission also met in executive session with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to discuss personnel. No action was taken.

Coast Electric accepts major credit cards

Coast Electric Power Association reports it will now accept major credit cards for payment of monthly electric bills.

According to General Manager Robert Occhi, "Our members have asked for more options, more ways to make paying their bills easier and convenient. So we develop a program to accept payments by using a MasterCard or VISA credit card."

Coast Electric consumer members may use their MasterCard or VISA at any office of the cooperative. "At present, our members will need to visit our office to use their card for payments," advised Occhi. The association maintains offices in Bay St. Louis, Biloxi, Gulfport, Piquette and Poplarville.

Credit card holders using the charge program will find there are no fees for this service. Additionally, newcomers to the area may use the credit cards for membership fees and other ordinary service charges. "When moving into a new area, people often face unexpected charges that can make them short of cash," Occhi said.

"Now by accepting credit cards, we can ease the financial burden of moving for the newcomer," he stated.

With the credit card option for payments, Coast Electric members have a choice and control over their own budgets. Once charged to the account, members may pay off their credit card balance or choose to stretch the balance over a longer period of time.

"Optional services and being responsive to the needs of our members is what Coast Electric is all about," commented Occhi. "Throughout 1987 we will continue to improve our efficiency, performance and review all areas to increase our services."

Speaking Oracles

By W. Edwin Kearley

Sinning against The Holy Spirit (No. 4)

The scribes blasphemed the Spirit when they imputed the Lord's miracles to an evil source. (Mark 3:22-27) They called good evil. While walking in the light, they denied the light, calling it darkness.

Isaiah said to Israel, "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter" (Isaiah 5:30).

The mislabeling game is an old game. It is as old as man. This blasphemy has caused millions of souls to be lost eternally.

It is not an isolated deed, but a condition of heart. Its coldness and hardness resists every wholesome influence. Paul makes a good description in the following words, "Who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness" (Ephesians 4:19). The expression "past feeling" indicates the conscience no longer felt pain at doing wrong. It is sad when one becomes depraved to that extent. In writing to Timothy, Paul tells of this depravity, "Speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron." (1 Timothy 4:2). The brand on cattle becomes hard or tough. Figuratively the seared conscience is like the callous brand on cattle.

This heinous condition is unpardonable. That is true because the people involved are beyond the reach of repentance. They cannot repent because they will not repent.

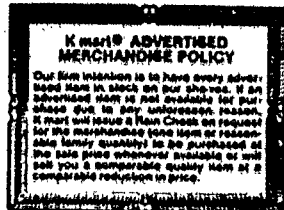

It is obvious that all sins are sins against the Holy Spirit. How many we avoid this state of depravity and escape the eternal consequences? By grieving not the Spirit, by quenching not the Spirit, by lying not to the Spirit, by resisting not the Spirit, by keeping the heart receptive and warm and responsive to the will of the Father. We must be as Samuel, who responded to God's call.

"And the Lord came and stood, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel, then Samuel answered, speak; for thy servant heareth." (1 Samuel 3:10) Samuel had thought the call came from Eli on two previous occasions. Then Eli instructed Samuel, "Therefore...go lie down; and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth." (1 Samuel 3:9).

Isaiah tells of his call, "Also, I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I; send me." (Isaiah 6:8).

The believing and penitent Saul of Tarsus was told by Ananias, "And now why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord," (Acts 22:16).

Miss Chamber contest entry deadline extended

Deadline for receiving contestant applications for Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has been extended to Monday, Jan. 26, according to Olivia Milner, chamber executive director.

Girls between the ages of 18 and 22 are urged to contact the chamber office and obtain an application. These should be submitted with 5 x 7 black and white photograph and a $10 entrance fee.

"If a girl will be 18 years old by Feb. 28 she is eligible to apply," said Milner, "and we would like everyone to know that there will not be a pageant for this title. A panel of judges will make the decision from the applications."

Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will represent the Chamber during 1987 at various functions.

The decision will be made by the judges Jan. 30.

Further information is available by contacting the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Power company district sets safety record

The 130 employees of Mississippi Power Company's Gulfport District have reached a safety milestone by working one million hours without a lost time accident - a period equalling three years and eight months.

"When you consider the potentially dangerous working situations of linemen and other power company employees, this landmark is impressive," Walter Williams, Gulfport District general manager said.

"When working around live electricity and heavy equipment our employees have to make a conscious effort every day to avoid accidents."

The Gulfport District is responsible for Mississippi Power Company's electrical operations and customer service from Wiggins to Gulfport to Waveland.

The Gulfport District is the only one of the company's six districts to have reached the one million man-hour goal.

Port commission to purchase culvert for aircraft facility

BY DENA BISNETTE
 The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission has agreed to supply a culvert for a new facility at Stennis Airport.

The request for the culvert was submitted Monday by Port and Harbor Director James DeBlanc on behalf of Smith and Smith Aircraft.

DeBlanc said Smith and Smith representatives told him that they hope to let a contract for the firm's hanger within the next few weeks.

The commission will purchase the culvert at state bid price and the contractor will install it.

The commission also met in executive session with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to discuss personnel. No action was taken.

Coast Electric accepts major credit cards

Coast Electric Power Association reports it will now accept major credit cards for payment of monthly electric bills.

According to General Manager Robert Occhi, "Our members have asked for more options, more ways to make paying their bills easier and convenient. So we develop a program to accept payments by using a Master Card or VISA credit card."

Coast Electric consumer members may use their MasterCard or VISA at any office of the cooperative. "At present, our members will need to visit our office to use their card for payments," advised Occhi. The association maintains offices in Bay St. Louis, Biloxi, Gulfport, Piquette and Poplarville.

Credit card holders using the charge program will find there are no fees for this service. Additionally, newcomers to the area may use the credit cards for membership fees and other ordinary service charges. "When moving into a new area, people often face unexpected charges that can make them short of cash," Occhi said.

"Now by accepting credit cards, we can ease the financial burden of moving for the newcomer," he stated.

With the credit card option for payments, Coast Electric members have a choice and control over their own budgets. Once charged to the account, members may pay off their credit card balance or choose to stretch the balance over a longer period of time.

"Optional services and being responsive to the needs of our members is what Coast Electric is all about," commented Occhi. "Throughout 1987 we will continue to improve our efficiency, performance and review all areas to increase our services."

Brother Ralph buried here

Brother Ralph, SC (Michael Thomas McGarry) died in Thibodaux, La., on Wednesday, January 14, 1987 at the Brothers' residence.

A native of Bokoshe, Ok., Brother Ralph, 77, was buried Friday in the Brothers Cemetery in Bay St. Louis. Brother Ralph, son of Andrew

Three years later he was named assistant basketball coach at St. Aloysius High School in New Orleans, La. where he remained until his appointment as head football coach at Aloysius in 1940.

The following year his Aloysius team won the state basketball title. Catholic High School in Baton Rouge, La. and Ascension Catholic High School in Donaldsonville, La. were other places where Brother Ralph's coaching won plaudits.

Poor health compelled him to leave the coaching field in the 1960's. In 1982 he was inducted into the Catholic High Schools' Hall of Fame in Baton Rouge.

The wake was at St. Joseph Co-Cathedral in Thibodaux where the Mass of Christian Burial was offered Friday, January 16.

In Bay St. Louis, in the St. Stanislaus Chapel, visitation preceded the Mass of Christian Burial on Friday afternoon.

Survivors include Brother Ralph's brother, Andrew McGarry of Van Nuys, Calif.; his sisters, Mrs. Walter Cox (Mary) of Pico/Rivera, Calif. and Mrs. Al Schroeder (Sarah) of Downey, Calif.; and a nephew, Hugh Doak of Whittier, Calif.

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis was in charge of arrangements.

Speaking Oracles

By W. Edwin Kearley

Sinning against The Holy Spirit (No. 4)

The scribes blasphemed the Spirit when they imputed the Lord's miracles to an evil source. (Mark 3:22-27) They called good evil. While walking in the light, they denied the light, calling it darkness.

Isaiah said to Israel, "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter" (Isaiah 5:20).

The mislabeling game is an old game. It is as old as man. This blasphemy has caused millions of souls to be lost eternally.

It is not an isolated deed, but a condition of heart. Its coldness and hardness resists every wholesome influence. Paul makes a good description in the following words, "Who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness" (Ephesians 4:19). The expression "past feeling" indicates the conscience no longer felt pain at doing wrong. It is sad when one becomes depraved to that extent. In writing to Timothy, Paul tells of this depravity, "Speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron." (I Timothy 4:2). The brand on cattle becomes hard or tough. Figuratively the seared conscience is like the callous brand on cattle.

This heinous condition is unpardonable. That is true because the people involved are beyond the reach of repentance. They cannot repent because they will not repent.

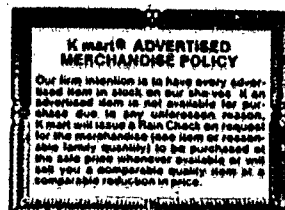

It is obvious that all sins are sins against the Holy Spirit. How many we avoid this state of depravity and escape the eternal consequences? By grieving not the Spirit, by quenching not the Spirit, by lying not to the Spirit, by resisting not the Spirit, by keeping the heart receptive and warm and responsive to the will of the Father. We must be as Samuel, who responded to God's call.

"And the Lord came and stood, and called as at other times: Samuel, Samuel, then Samuel answered, speak; for thy servant heareth." (I Samuel 3:10) Samuel had thought the call came from Eli on two previous occasions. Then Eli instructed Samuel, "Therefore, go lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth." (I Samuel 3:9)

Isaiah tells of his call, "Also, I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I; send me." (Isaiah 6:8)

The believing and penitent Saul of Tarsus was told by Ananias, "And now why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins calling on the name of the Lord." (Acts 22:16)

Miss Chamber contest entry deadline extended

Deadline for receiving contestant applications for Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has been extended to Monday, Jan. 26, according to Olivia Milner, chamber executive director.

Girls between the ages of 18 and 22 are urged to contact the chamber office and obtain an application. These should be submitted with 5 x 7 black and white photograph and a $10 entrance fee.

"If a girl will be 18 years old by Feb. 28 she is eligible to apply," said Milner, "and we would like everyone to know that there will not be a pageant for this title. A panel of judges will make the decision from the applications."

Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will represent the Chamber during 1987 at various functions.

The decision will be made by the judges Jan. 30.

Further information is available by contacting the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Quotables by CUEVAS

It is good to see clearing begin for construction of the new Bay St. Louis Post Office.

Of special interest is the removal of the debris from the demolished buildings. Many residents were complaining about the debris.

Bay Postmaster Tom Hill reports the new facility is scheduled for November 1987 completion.

The Chamber of Commerce is seeking girls between the ages of 18 and 22 to enter in the Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce contest.

The deadline for applicants has been extended until Monday, January 26.

There will be no pageant for this title, as a winner will be selected by a panel of judges.

Further information can be obtained by calling the chamber's office at 467-9048.

This is a good opportunity for some lucky girl, and we are hoping there will be many applicants.

Rain, rain go away, as we have had enough for January.

We can talk about the weather, yet we cannot do anything about it.

It is hoped we will get a little break and things will dry out a bit before we float away.

Elderly can suffer from indoor pollution

Gas ranges, furnaces, space heaters, fireplaces and wood and coal burning stoves used frequently by elderly Mississippians for cooking and heating are potential sources of indoor air pollution, and therefore, pose a danger, particularly to the elderly who spend the majority of their time indoors.

The Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs estimates that older people spend an average of nine-tenths of their time indoors and should be aware of their increased susceptibility to indoor air pollutants.

"Weather stripping and caulking our homes help conserve energy," said MCOA Director D. David K. Brown. "But, by reducing the exchange of indoor/outdoor air, we increase the potential for air pollutants from cigarettes, kerosene, space heaters, gas stoves, fireplaces, etc. This often can lead to respiratory problems."

By providing adequate ventilation and following a few safety suggestions, the amount of indoor air pollution the elderly are exposed to can be lessened, Brown added.

MCOA offered the following suggestions:

For homes with gas ranges, individuals are urged to make sure their stoves function properly, are thoroughly cleaned so that food and dirt do not hamper efficiency, and maintenance and adjustments are made by the gas company.

Flames on gas stoves should burn blue; a yellow-tipped flame indicates a problem. Gas ranges also should have a hood vented to the outside, a fan that works at high speed and a clean hood filter.

"Persons whose stoves are not mechanically vented should open a nearby window while cooking," Brown said.

Other suggestions include:

—Never use a kitchen range or oven for home heating because high levels of carbon monoxide can accumulate, resulting in nausea, loss of consciousness and death.

—Never use a charcoal grill or hibachi inside your home. If you smell gas at home, leave immediately and call the gas company. Do not operate electrical appliances or switches, smoke or light a match because the smallest spark may ignite gas fumes.

Furnaces and space heaters also should be properly vented to ensure safety. "There should be a sufficient intake of air for the furnace to burn its fuel properly. If flue pipes or heat exchangers are clogged or cracked, harmful combustion products can leak into the house," Brown said.

"Space heaters are popular because they can warm a particular part of the house, but they can be dangerous if sufficient ventilation is not provided," Brown said. "Unvented space heaters, especially ones that are dirty and poorly adjusted, may pose dangers from exposure to nitrogen dioxide which can lead to chronic emphysema or bronchitis."

When using unvented space heaters, remember to keep adequate clearance (about 3 feet) on all sides to prevent ignition of furniture, draperies, clothing, etc.; but a heater with a guard around the flame or heating coil to keep children, pets and clothing away from the heat; never use flammable liquids such as gasoline or cleaning fluid around the heater because vapors can be ignited; and always install and operate the heater according to manufacturer's instructions.

Be especially careful with kerosene and oil space heaters, and never touch an electric space heater when any part of the body or floor surface is wet.

Fireplaces, wood and coal-burning stoves have gained popularity, but also can be a source of indoor air pollution if not carefully installed and maintained.

Some safety tips for fireplace and stove users include:

Keep chimney and chimney pipes clear of creosote, a tar-like substance that accumulates from burning wood that can cause the chimney to become extremely hot.

Always open the fireplace damper before lighting a fire.

Never use gasoline, charcoal lighter fluid or other flammable liquids to light or relight a fire.

Use dry wood in your fireplace or stove to decrease the possibility of soot, creosote deposits and flying sparks.

Use a fire screen that covers the fireplace opening or keep the stove door closed.

Keep a fire extinguisher nearby and install smoke detectors.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

THE COMMITMENT TO OUR VETERANS

In late December, when Washington was ripe with speculation about pending federal budget for 1988, I noted with interest two reports on the Veterans Administration budget which appeared in The Washington Post on consecutive days.

On the first day, the headline read, "928 Million Cut Sought in VA Budget Request." It detailed how the pencil pushers at the Office of Management and Budget were planning to wield the scalpel on the VA budget.

But the following day, the headline read, "(President) Reagan Deletes $1 Billion Cuts in VA Spending." It refuted the previous day's report and said that President had rejected the nearly $1 billion in cuts in veterans programs proposed by OMB the previous day.

The President has taken charge and is proposing a veterans budget for the 1988 fiscal year calling for $27.6 billion in new budget authority to fund medical, compensation and other programs for the Nation's 27.6 million veterans, eligible members of their families and survivors of deceased veterans.

His request is nearly $50 million greater than the current estimated requirements. The Administrator of the VA says the new level of funding will enable the agency to move forward aggressively, continuing to modernize its facilities and major benefits delivery systems, while providing the uncompromised quality service our veterans have earned. That is as it should be.

Mississippi is home to 248,000 of the nation's veterans. More than 26,000 veterans in Mississippi currently receive VA compensation benefits, and 48,000 Mississippi veterans draw VA pensions.

We have two VA medical facilities in Mississippi—one on the Gulf Coast and the other in Jackson. The VA budget proposes spending $38 million for a clinical addition at the Jackson medical center.

The Gulf Coast and Jackson facilities together provide health care to almost 200,000 patients. Another 54,000 veterans in the northern part of the state are served by the VA medical facility in Memphis. And, Mississippi's VA outpatient clinics report visits annually from 460,000 veterans.

Because 1988 budget proposed spending $15.2 billion for benefits programs, $10.3 billion for medical programs and $52.7 million for construction.

I am looking closely at the details of the VA budget to make certain I understand the impact of each of its provisions. I have questions about some of them, but overall, I am encouraged with the funding levels, especially in view of the federal deficit reduction requirements.

The 99th Congress which adjourned in October overwhelmingly approved a major veterans benefits bill—now law—to improve compensation, health care, education, employment and housing programs for our veterans.

The 100th Congress under the leadership of Ronald Reagan will build on that commitment to remember our veterans and respond to their complex needs.

because of so many recent tax and fee increases on the trucking industry.

Other objections cited by Ferry were:

—A 5 cent per-gallon fuel tax increase would place Mississippi at the highest gasoline tax in the nation and the second highest diesel fuel tax in the nation.

—The average price of diesel fuel in 10 southern states is currently 13.7 cents. The nickel-a-gallon increase in Mississippi would impose an effective per-gallon diesel tax increase of 19.3 cents in Mississippi.

—Mississippi truckers pay the highest registration fees among 10 southern states and the fifth highest in the nation.

—Highway development in Mississippi will not improve significantly by throwing more money at a problem. The legislature should economize by creating a department of transportation and abolishing the elected Highway Commission. Is our current highway situation existing testimony that Mississippi is doing right, and 49 other states are doing it all wrong?

—Mississippi, the state with the lowest per capita income and near the highest in unemployment, should not have its citizens paying the highest fuel taxes in the nation.

Ferry summarized the MTA position by stating, "The Mississippi Trucking Association believes that the trucking industry has an obligation to pay its fair share of taxes to build and maintain highways."

Immediate planning needed to alleviate area's growing pains

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

Last night a group of citizens met with the Mayor and City Council of Bay St. Louis and the results of the meeting proved enlightening, if not disheartening.

The city is in for tough times and immediate action is needed to avoid serious financial problems in the near future.

It is clear that we are in dire need of a master plan to carry us through not just 1987, but 1997, as well.

A consensus seemed to be growing at this meeting that in order to lower taxes for property owners we should raise the sales tax (one man had the courage to state the ludicrousness of meeting to find a way to lower taxes and agreeing to raise taxes!).

If we need to learn by mistake, let us learn by the errors made by the city of New Orleans in attempt to cure financial woes through increasing sales tax. They are currently paying 9 percent sales tax and as we all well know, experiencing financial chaos.

Unfortunately, sales, tax, property tax and utility fees are the main sources of revenue for cities. The solution must lie in reducing the cost of city services.

We, the citizens made our intentions clear in a referendum held to force the county to adopt a unit system of government.

The force was loud and clear—save us money on our taxes by consolidating duplicated services. The demands of the citizens are clear, but the voices of our politicians are clouded.

If we can move immediately to consolidate services in law enforcement, education, fire protection, court systems and other areas, in conjunction with the efforts to consolidate tax collection and waste treatment, we will be able to face the near future and grow.

I know that this will be a hard pill to swallow, because absolute consolidation, which should be our ultimate goal, would mean some trade-offs in our identity as a city.

I was encouraged by the strong interest shown by both our city and county officials and our citizens in moving now to plan for our future.

I feel certain that Mayor Frankiewicz can work out the details and establish a plan for the future. Let us all join together to encourage swift actions to ensure our future.

Sincerely,
Michael D. Haas Jr.

Matters of Health

PREGNANCY AND ALCOHOL

Q: My daughter recently became pregnant. I'm worried that her excessive drinking might harm the baby. How much alcohol is too much when you are pregnant, and what kind of damage can my daughter's drinking do to her unborn child?

A: Chronic alcohol abuse produces biochemical and physiological changes that can affect fetal tissue just as they affect adult tissue.

When alcohol is consumed, it is absorbed through the intestinal wall and distributed throughout the body. During pregnancy, alcohol crosses the placenta and reaches the fetus in the same concentration as exists in the mother. Since the fetus is growing so rapidly, the effects of alcohol appear more devastating.

Tolerance for alcohol differs among women. Some may feel intoxicated after two drinks, while others may need five or six drinks. Since sensitivity to alcohol likely differs among fetuses, too, it is difficult to say what level of drinking is safe, but the dangers of heavy drinking are clear.

Researchers consider a heavy drinker to be one who consumes five or six drinks a day. A drink is defined as a beverage containing a half ounce of absolute alcohol, this is, a 12-ounce can of beer, four ounces of wine, or one and one-fourth ounces of 80-proof liquor.

The most extreme effect of alcohol abuse during pregnancy is seen in the fetal alcohol syndrome.

This pattern of abnormalities is usually seen only in children of mothers who are chronic alcoholics and who drink heavily throughout pregnancy.

Children with fetal alcohol syndrome are smaller at birth and do not grow properly after they are born. They are neurologically and intellectually impaired, and have characteristic facial abnormalities.

Some babies who have been exposed to large amounts of alcohol may have some, but not all, of the problems associated with the fetal alcohol syndrome.

Researchers, in a study, found that babies born to mothers who occasionally consume five or more drinks were smaller and care for them was more difficult.

During the progressive stages of pregnancy, various parts of the fetus may be more sensitive to alcohol. In the first trimester, the basic organization of body cells can be affected. During the last three months, the fetal brain is vulnerable, since it is growing rapidly and organizing to regulate the body after birth.

Research has shown that women who drank heavily in early pregnancy, but who quit drinking by mid-pregnancy, had healthier children, than those who continued to drink. The most important thing women who are drinking heavily and are pregnant can do is stop drinking. Anyone who occasionally drinks five or six drinks should stop immediately to protect herself and the unborn fetus.

All women who are pregnant should eat properly, exercise, avoid the use of alcohol, drugs and tobacco. Any woman who has been drinking heavily while pregnant should ask her physician for help. If the physician is unable to help stop her drinking, she should seek assistance through community alcoholism treatment programs or Alcoholics Anonymous.

Happy Birthday

Bay St. Louis

Bay St. Louis City Hall as originally constructed

The City of Bay St. Louis is celebrating its 169th birthday this week.

According to information provided by the Mississippi Department of Archives and History Bay St. Louis was originally chartered Jan. 21, 1818 as Shieldsborough.

The recent discovery of several charter dates led Bay Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. to request the original charter date from the state department.

Frankiewicz believes this is the correct date since it is only weeks after Mississippi became a state in December 1817.

He said there is apparently no official record of the 1858 date which was celebrated 29 years ago as the city's centennial.

wide engineering and construction costs for the road from McLeod Water Park to Highway 607.

The road is paved from Highway 607 to the park.

The board had originally applied to have the road paved under the U.S. Army's Strategic Defense Road System, because it serves as the main accessway for the Mississippi Army Ammunition plant.

The supervisors had been informed last year by an aide to Congressman Trent Lott that the road had been placed on the appropriations list.

However, Kellar reported the county has no guarantee of funding from the Army and asked the board to consider other funding possibilities.

In other business, the board: —Accepted rosters of active volunteer fire department members from BaySide Park, Leetown and East Hancock volunteer fire departments;

—Discussed a Gulf Regional Planning Commission proposal for renumbering houses and naming all streets in the county and took the matter under advisement;

overcrowding, with too many students in proportion to classroom size, library size and resources, and cafeteria, restroom and administrative facilities.

North Bay, like Waveland Elementary, was found to have no flexibility in its structure, no covered physical education area and inappropriate playground equipment, lack of storage and parking, insufficient library books and media supplies and antiquated classroom furnishings.

In addition, the building has no music or art facilities and inappropriate climate control, and its windows do not close.

Oge said there is also a problem with sand from the playground getting inside the building and with chalkboards that are mounted too high for younger students.

He said one of the physical problems with North Bay is the building's sewerage system is already operating at full capacity.

The special meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the boardroom at Bay Senior High School Monday.

a certified public accountant in the audience.

Prior to the decision to form the task force, Frankiewicz explained the increase in property taxes for the city and the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

City property taxes are now 30.85 mills, school district taxes are 38.85 mills and county taxes are 38.03 mills.

County school district taxes are 25.12 mills, but that particular tax rate was not part of the discussion because the forum was directed toward owners of commercial property in Bay St. Louis, which is included in the Bay-Waveland school district.

Frankiewicz cited three reasons for the increase, including new expenses for the school district such as kindergartens and the second installation of state-mandated teacher raises. Other increased school district expenses include two years of shortfall loans totalling $115,000 and $180,000 and increased use of local funds to make up for state cuts in textbooks, transportation and administrative salaries.

Also contributing to the increased commercial taxes is a constitutional amendment which reduced the assessment on owner-occupied homes from 15 percent of appraised value to 10 percent.

Frankiewicz also blamed increased utility costs resulting from the extension of city utilities into areas included in the last Bay St. Louis annexation and from the city's share of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District's current improvement project.

He said costs for the project had been split, being partially paid out of utility rates and partially paid out of taxes "because we felt that both future as well as current users would benefit from the improvements."

He added that commercial and rental property owners tend to suffer because any unimproved property classified as agricultural is assessed at 15 percent, but with a cap of $180 per acre.

Robert Kane, one of about 15 people who commented at the forum, said, "What we are finding in our community is that we can't develop property under circumstances where taxes are so high."

He asked for a concerted lobbying effort to help convince the legislature to redistribute property taxes.

Another solution, offered by Paul Vegas, was consolidation of Bay St. Louis, Waveland and county services.

Bay St. Louis tax collections have already been consolidated with the county tax department, and a task force of law enforcement personnel and public officials has already had two meetings regarding consolidation of dispatching and other law enforcement services.

It is good to see clearing begin for construction of the new Bay St. Louis Post Office.

Of special interest is the removal of the debris from the demolished buildings. Many residents were complaining about the debris.

Bay Postmaster Tom Hill reports the new facility is scheduled for November 1987 completion.

The Chamber of Commerce is seeking girls between the ages of 18 and 22 to enter in the Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce contest.

The deadline for applicants has been extended until Monday, January 26.

Elderly can suffer from indoor pollution

Gas ranges, furnaces, space heaters, fireplaces and wood and coal burning stoves used frequently by elderly Mississippians for cooking and heating are potential sources of indoor air pollution, and therefore, pose a danger, particularly to the elderly who spend the majority of their time indoors.

The Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs estimates that older people spend an average of nine-tenths of their time indoors and should be aware of their increased susceptibility to indoor air pollutants.

"Weather stripping and caulking our homes help conserve energy," said MCOA Director D. David K. Brown. "But, by reducing the exchange of indoor/outdoor air, we increase the potential for air pollutants from cigarettes, kerosene, space heaters, gas stoves, fireplaces, etc. This often can lead to respiratory problems."

By providing adequate ventilation and following a few safety suggestions, the amount of indoor air pollution the elderly are exposed to can be lessened, Brown added.

MCOA offered the following suggestions:

For homes with gas ranges, individuals are urged to make sure their stoves function properly, are thoroughly cleaned so that food and dirt do not hamper efficiency; and maintenance and adjustments are made by the gas company.

Flames on gas stoves should burn blue; a yellow-tipped flame indicates a problem. Gas ranges also should have a hood vented to the outside, a fan that works at high speed and a clean hood filter.

"Persons whose stoves are not mechanically vented should open a nearby window while cooking," Brown said.

Other suggestions include: —Never use a kitchen range or oven for home heating because high levels of carbon monoxide can accumulate, resulting in nausea, loss of consciousness and death.

—Never use a charcoal grill or hibachi inside your home. If you smell gas at home, leave immediately and call the gas company. Do not operate electrical appliances or switches, smoke or light a match because the smallest spark may ignite gas fumes.

Furnaces and space heaters also should be properly vented to ensure safety. "There should be a sufficient intake of air for the furnace to burn its fuel properly. If flue pipes or heat exchangers are clogged or cracked, harmful combustion products can leak into the house," Brown said.

"Space heaters are popular because they can warm a particular part of the house, but they can be dangerous if sufficient ventilation is not provided," Brown said. "Unvented space heaters, especially ones that are dirty and poorly adjusted, may pose dangers from exposure to nitrogen dioxide which can lead to chronic emphysema or bronchitis."

When using unvented space heaters, remember to keep adequate clearance (about 3 feet) on all sides to prevent ignition of furniture, draperies, clothing, etc.; but a heater with a guard around the flame or heating coil to keep children, pets and clothing away from the heat; never use flammable liquids such as gasoline or cleaning fluid around the heater because vapors can be ignited; and always install and operate the heater according to manufacturer's instructions.

Be especially careful with kerosene and oil space heaters, and never touch an electric space heater when any part of the body or floor surface is wet.

Fireplaces, wood and coal-burning stoves have gained popularity, but also can be a source of indoor air pollution if not carefully installed and maintained.

Some safety tips for fireplace and stove users include:

Keep chimney and chimney pipes clear of creosote, a tar-like substance that accumulates from burning wood that can cause the chimney to become extremely hot.

Always open the fireplace damper before lighting a fire.

Never use gasoline, charcoal lighter fluid or other flammable liquids to light or relight a fire.

Use dry wood in your fireplace or stove to decrease the possibility of soot, creosote deposits and flying sparks.

Use a fire screen that covers the fireplace opening or keep the stove door closed.

Keep a fire extinguisher nearby and install smoke detectors.

For more information on ways to prevent indoor air pollution and other subjects relating to the elderly, write the Mississippi Council on Aging at 301 W. Pearl Street, Jackson 39203-3090 or phone 949-2013.

THE COMMITMENT TO OUR VETERANS

In late December, when Washington was ripe with speculation about pending federal budget for 1988, I noted with interest two reports on the Veterans Administration budget which appeared in The Washington Post on consecutive days.

On the first day, the headline read, "3928 Million. Cut Sought in VA Budget Request." It detailed how the pencil pushers at the Office of Management and Budget were planning to wield the scalpel on the VA budget.

But the following day, the headline read, "(President) Reagan Deletes $1 Billion Cuts in VA Spending." It refuted the previous day's report and said that President had rejected the nearly $1 billion in cuts in veterans programs proposed by OMB the previous day.

The President has taken charge and is proposing a veterans budget for the 1988 fiscal year calling for $27.6 billion in new budget authority to fund medical, compensation and other programs for the Nation's 27.6 million veterans, eligible members of their families and survivors of deceased veterans.

His request is nearly $550 million greater than the current estimated requirements. The Administrator of the VA says the new level of funding will enable the agency to move forward aggressively, continuing to modernize its facilities and major benefits delivery systems, while providing the uncompromised quality service our veterans have earned.

That is as it should be.

Mississippi is home to 248,000 of the nation's veterans. More than 26,000 veterans in Mississippi currently receive VA compensation benefits, and 48,000 Mississippi veterans draw VA pensions.

We have two VA medical facilities in Mississippi — one on the Gulf Coast and the other in Jackson. The VA budget proposes spending $38 million for a clinical addition at the Jackson medical center.

The Gulf Coast and Jackson facilities together provide health care to almost 200,000 patients. Another 54,000 veterans in the northern part of the state are served by the VA medical facility in Memphis. And, Mississippi's VA outpatient clinics report visits annually from 460,000 veterans.

Because 1988 budget proposed spending $15.2 billion for benefits programs; $10.3 billion for medical programs and $25.7 million for construction.

I am looking closely at the details of the VA budget to make certain I understand the impact of each of its provisions. I have questions about some of them, but overall, I am encouraged with the funding levels, especially in view of the federal deficit recution requirements.

The 99th Congress which adjourned in October overwhelmingly approved a major veterans benefits bill — now law — to improve compensation, health care, education, employment and housing programs for our veterans.

The 100th Congress under the leadership of Ronald Reagan will build on that commitment to remember our veterans and respond to their complex needs.

Truckers oppose state tax increase on fuel

The Mississippi Trucking Association Board of Directors has voted not to support 5 cents per-gallon tax increase proposal now being considered by the Mississippi Legislature.

The announcement was made by Randy Ferry, president of Mississippi Trucking Association and head of Howard Transportation of Laurel.

Ferry acknowledged that the group agreed that good highways are a basic need for the state but could not support additional taxes because of so many recent tax and fee increases on the trucking industry.

Other objections cited by Ferry were:

—A 5 cent per-gallon fuel tax increase would place Mississippi at the highest gasoline tax in the nation and the second highest diesel fuel tax in the nation.

—The average price of diesel fuel in 10 southern states is currently 13.7 cents. The nickel-a-gallon increase in Mississippi would impose an effective per-gallon diesel tax increase of 19.3 cents in Mississippi.

—Mississippi truckers pay the highest registration fees among 10 southern states and the fifth highest in the nation.

—Highway development in Mississippi will not improve significantly by throwing more money at a problem. The legislature should economize by creating a department of transportation and abolishing the elected Highway Commission. Is our current highway situation existing testimony that Mississippi is doing right, and 49 other states are doing it all wrong?

—Mississippi, the state with the lowest per capita income and near the highest in unemployment, should not have its citizens paying the highest fuel taxes in the nation.

Ferry summarized the MTA position by stating, "The Mississippi Trucking Association believes that the trucking industry has an obligation to pay its fair share of taxes to build and maintain highways."

Matters of Health

PREGNANCY AND ALCOHOL

Q: My daughter recently became pregnant. I'm worried that her excessive drinking might harm the baby. How much alcohol is too much when you are pregnant, and what kind of damage can my daughter's drinking do to her unborn child?

A: Chronic alcohol abuse produces biochemical and physiological changes that can affect fetal tissue just as they affect adult tissue.

When alcohol is consumed, it is absorbed through the intestinal wall and distributed throughout the body. During pregnancy, alcohol crosses the placenta and reaches the fetus in the same concentration as exists in the mother. Since the fetus is growing so rapidly, the effects of alcohol appear more devastating.

Tolerance for alcohol differs among women. Some may feel intoxicated after two drinks, while others may need five or six drinks. Since sensitivity to alcohol likely differs among fetuses, too, it is difficult to say what level of drinking is safe, but the dangers of heavy drinking are clear.

Researchers consider a heavy drinker to be one who consumes five or six drinks a day. A drink is defined as a beverage containing a half ounce of absolute alcohol, this is, a 12-ounce can of beer, four ounces of wine, or one and one-fourth ounces of 80-proof liquor.

The most extreme effect of alcohol abuse during pregnancy is seen in the fetal alcohol syndrome.

This pattern of abnormalities is usually seen only in children of mothers who are chronic alcoholics and who drink heavily throughout pregnancy.

Children with fetal alcohol syndrome are smaller at birth and do not grow properly after they are born. They are neurologically and intellectually impaired, and have characteristic facial abnormalities.

Some babies who have been exposed to large amounts of alcohol may have some, but not all, of the problems associated with the fetal alcohol syndrome.

Researchers, in a study, found that babies born to mothers who occasionally consume five or more drinks were smaller and care for them was more difficult.

During the progressive stages of pregnancy, various parts of the fetus may be more sensitive to alcohol. In the first trimester, the basic organization of body cells can be affected. During the last three months, the fetal brain is vulnerable, since it is growing rapidly and organizing to regulate the body after birth.

Research has show that women who drank heavily in early pregnancy, but who quit drinking by mid-pregnancy, had healthier children, than those who continued to drink. The most important thing women who are drinking heavily and are pregnant can do is stop drinking. Anyone who occasionally drinks five or six drinks should stop immediately to protect herself and the unborn fetus.

All women who are pregnant should eat properly, exercise, avoid the use of alcohol, drugs and tobacco. Any woman who has been drinking heavily while pregnant should ask her physician for help. If the physician is unable to help stop the drinking, she should seek assistance through community alcoholism treatment programs or Alcoholics Anonymous.

Happy Birthday Bay St. Louis

Bay St. Louis City Hall as originally constructed

The City of Bay St. Louis is celebrating its 169th birthday this week.

According to information provided by the Mississippi Department of Archives and History Bay St. Louis was originally chartered Jan. 21, 1818 as Shieldsborough.

The recent discover of several charter dates led Bay Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. to request the original charter date from the state department.

Frankiewicz believes this is the correct date since it is only weeks after Mississippi became a state in December 1817.

He said there is apparently no official record of the 1838 date which was celebrated 29 years ago as the city's centennial.

vide engineering and construction costs for the road from McLeod Water Park to Highway 607.

The road is paved from Highway 607 to the park.

The board had originally applied to have the road paved under the U.S. Army's Strategic Defense Road System, because it serves as the main accessway for the Mississippi Army Ammunition plant.

The supervisors had been informed last year by an aide to Congressman Trent Lott that the road had been placed on the appropriations list.

However, Kellar reported the county has no guarantee of funding from the Army and asked the board to consider other funding possibilities.

In other business, the board:

—Accepted rosters of active volunteer fire department members from BaySide Park, Leetown and East Hancock volunteer fire departments;

—Discussed a Gulf Regional Planning Commission proposal for renumbering houses and naming all streets in the county and took the matter under advisement;

overcrowding, with too many students in proportion to classroom size, library size and resources; and cafeteria, restroom and administrative facilities.

North Bay, like Waveland Elementary, was found to have no flexibility in its structure, no covered physical education area and inappropriate playground equipment, lack of storage and parking, insufficient library books and media supplies and antiquated classroom furnishings.

In addition, the building has no music or art facilities and inappropriate climate control, and its windows do not close.

Oge said there is also a problem with sand from the playground getting inside the building and with chalkboards that are mounted too high for younger students.

He said one of the physical problems with North Bay is the building's sewerage system is already operating at full capacity.

The special meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the boardroom at Bay Senior High School Monday.

MOTHER OF YEAR—Louise Williams of Bay St. Louis is the Hancock County Branch-National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Mother of the Year, named at the chapter's recent eighth annual Supper Theater at Gulfside Assembly Center in Waveland.

Clermont Harbor, Kiln to get new postmasters

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Hancock County communities of Kiln and Clermont Harbor should be getting new postmasters at local U. S. Post Offices within 90 days.

Long-time Clermont Harbor Postmaster Betty Klein has retired. Murray Bigott has been appointed officer in charge pending the selection of the new postmaster.

Kiln Postmaster Walter Pennington has transferred to the Gulfport post office where he will serve as an account representative in the customer service department. Clerk Opal Bennett is continuing at the Kiln post office and an officer in charge is expected to be named by the end of the month.

Story Hour titles listed

Story programs are conducted Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at City-County Library on US-90 and Fridays at 10:30 a.m. at Waveland Library on Coleman Ave.

Waveland's program this week includes "Wake Up and Good Night" by Charlotte Zolotow; "The Quiet Noisy Book" by Margaret Wise Brown; "Teddy Bear," a physical activity; "Going to Bed," a finger play; "Mother, Mother I want Another," a flannel board story and the filmstrip "Good Night Owl."

Helen Almond presents the Waveland program.

Phillips elected to new Representative committee

Representative Walter J. Phillips of Bay St. Louis has been elected to the newly restructured Management Committee in the Mississippi House of Representatives.

Phillips, completing his fifth term in the Legislature, was among 10 lawmakers chosen by their colleagues last week to serve on the Committee which oversees business, administrative and personnel matters for the House.

Under new House rules approved earlier in the session, the Management Committee was enlarged from five to 12 members including Speaker C.B. (Buddie) Newman, Speaker Pro Tempore Cecil Simmons, and two members elected from each of the state's congressional districts. Simmons serves as the Committee chairman.

Formerly, the Management Committee was made up of four members appointed by the Speakers.

Phillips and Representative Isiah Fredricks of Gulfport were elected to serve on the Management Committee from the 5th Congressional District.

Phillips represents the 122nd District of Hancock County in the House.

a certified public accountant in the audience.

Prior to the decision to form the task force, Frankiewicz explained the increase in property taxes for the city and the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

City property taxes are now 30.85 mills, school district taxes are 38.85 mills and county taxes are 38.03 mills.

County school district taxes are 25.12 mills, but that particular tax rate was not part of the discussion because the forum was directed toward owners of commercial property in Bay St. Louis, which is included in the Bay-Waveland school district.

Frankiewicz cited three reasons for the increase, including new expenses for the school district such as kindergartens and the second installation of state-mandated teacher raises. Other increased school district expenses include two years of shortfall loans totalling $115,000 and $180,000 and increased use of local funds to make up for state cuts in textbooks, transportation and administrative salaries.

Also contributing to the increased commercial taxes is a constitutional amendment which reduced the assessment on owner-occupied homes from 15 percent of appraised value to 10 percent.

Frankiewicz also blamed increased utility costs resulting from the extension of city utilities into areas included in the last Bay St. Louis annexation and from the city's share of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District's current improvement project.

He said costs for the project had been split, being partially paid out of utility rates and partially paid out of taxes "because we felt that both future as well as current users would benefit from the improvements."

He added that commercial and rental property owners tend to suffer because any unimproved property classified as agricultural is assessed at 15 percent, but with a cap of $180 per acre.

Robert Kane, one of about 15 people who commented at the forum, said, "What we are finding in our community is that we can't develop property under circumstances where taxes are so high."

He asked for a concerted lobbying effort to help convince the legislature to redistribute property taxes.

Another solution, offered by Paul Vegas, was consolidation of Bay St. Louis, Waveland and county services.

Bay St. Louis tax collections have already been consolidated with the county tax department, and a task force of law enforcement personnel and public officials has already had two meetings regarding consolidation of dispatching and other law enforcement services.

"Now is the time to make real the promise of democracy and transform our pending national elegy into a creative psalm of brotherhood. Now is the time to lift our national policy from the quicksand of racial injustice to the solid rock of human dignity."

An Open Letter To Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. (Posthumously)

Dear Martin;

On this special day, it is indeed an honor to commemorate a King.

More specifically, you, Dr. Martin Luther King, who has done more for mankind in your short lifetime than many other renowned leaders who have lived full lives.

To have your name indelibly printed in the minds of millions of people throughout the world, is awe inspiring. Dr. King, you have commanded respect even after death and deserve the honor and commemoration bestowed upon you as a world leader, a man and above all else, a Black man.

At this time we would like to reflect upon and paraphrase some of your lesser known, but nonetheless impressive proclamations. You have used the passage that says, "Those who forget their past are condemned to repeat it."

This is so true, especially when we look at the young people, people of all races, who came along after the movement and do not recognize the significance of this statement.

They are indeed condemned to repeat it.

You have taught us so much, Dr. King, that it cannot all be written in this short letter, but I must share this with you.

You have said to us, "I have been to the mountain top. I really wish I could stay on the mountain; but I must go back to the valley. I must go back because my brothers and sisters in Mississippi and Alabama are sweltering under the heat of injustice. These are people starving in the valley, people who don't have jobs and people who can't vote."

You told the truth, Dear Martin, but things have changed in Mississippi and Alabama. However, we do know that there is more to be done. It is unfortunate that the rest of our country has not taken heed of your message on peace.

It is now 20 years later and all of us are still sweltering under the heat of injustice. The vote alone cannot bring about the fruition of your dream. You have died to make us free.

These words we will never forget, "A man who won't die for something is not fit to live." You were a man who spoke many times of your own death; not with fear or self pity, but in reality.

If you had lived on, the struggle ahead would be easier, but because you did live, the fight will take place based on experience. Ultimately, Dr. King, nonviolence, equality and justice will prevail in these great United States, a nation whose own fight for independence was guided by those principles.

In closing, we want to say Happy Birthday and thank you for giving us the guidance and strength to emulate your great life.

With love and respect,
Herta Smith, President
The Krewes of Real People

News brief

PARK CEREMONY

Herlihy Street Park in Waveland will be renamed and dedicated Sunday in memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The public is invited to participate in a march that will leave Mount Chapel Baptist Church at 12:30 p.m. and proceed down Herlihy Street to the park for a 1 p.m. ribbon cutting.

Speakers will include Hancock County Branch of National Association for Advancement of Colored People President Marilyn Smith, Mayor John Longo Jr. and several local ministers.

PO2 MCDONALD

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Kevin A. McDonald, whose wife, Michelle, is the daughter of Andrew and Betty Lizana of 451 Webster St., Bay St. Louis, participated in preparing for the President's recent summit meeting in Iceland.

Members of the Iceland Defense Force participated in the President's summit visit, providing additional security guards, media escorts as well as housing vehicles and augmented communications capabilities necessitated by the visiting dignitaries.

FELLOWSHIP DINNER—Among the servers at a recent fellowship dinner hosted by First Missionary Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis are Mrs. Bernice Robinson and City Councilman Charles Johnson. Church members provided covered dishes and transportation to include meal service to senior citizens, sick or home-bound members of the community.

Be King for a Day

January 19 marks the observance of the national honoring Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

What better way to celebrate his birthday than by living his dream? From sunup to sundown, try to see each person as a brother or sister.

Look for the ways in which we are similar, not different.

Try not to make assumptions based on race.

Learn something new about a different culture.

Commit yourself to world peace.

Electric heaters not designed for overnight use, experts say

Government safety experts say half the deaths and one-third the injuries resulting from portable electric heater fires could be prevented if consumers stopped using the heaters overnight when all family members are asleep.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, portable electric heaters are involved in 240,000 residential fires each year. Most of these were not serious fires, but over 3,000 were attended by the fire service and resulted in 95 deaths and 220 injuries annually.

CPSC safety experts offered the following suggestions for operating portable electric heaters safely:

Do not use these heaters as a substitute for a central heating system. Portable electric air heaters are designed for temporary heating only.

Operate the heater at least three feet away from combustible materials, including bedding, home furnishings and objects in the room. Always follow warning or cautionary advice provided in labels on the heater, and follow manufacturer's operating instructions provided on or with the heater.

Unless designed for specific uses, heaters should be used on the floor, never on cabinets, tables, furniture and the like. Never use heaters to dry wearing apparel or shoes. Do not place heaters where towels or other combustible materials could fall on the appliance and trigger a fire.

Heaters are not intended to be used in wet or moist locations, such as bathrooms. Never locate the heater where it may fall into water.

Make sure the electric cord is strung out and not buried under carpeting or rugs. Do not place anything on top of the cord. Be sure the plug fits snugly in the receptacle. If the plug is loose, the potential for overheating is increased, and you should have a qualified repairman replace the plug or receptacle promptly.

Avoid using an extension cord unless absolutely necessary. If you must use an extension cord, it must be marked #14 or #12 AWG; this tells the consumer the thickness or gauge of the wire in the cord. For example, a cord often sold at hardware stores as "air conditioner extension cord" will have these heavy gauge wires. Do not use a cord marked #16 or #18 AWG.

Because heaters draw considerable power, it is not unusual for the cord or plug to feel warm to the touch. However, if the cord or plug feels hot, unplug the unit and have a qualified appliance repairman check for problems. If the appliance is found to be operating properly, have the receptacle replaced. Continued operation of a heater with a hot cord or plug could lead to a fire.

If the heater is used on a circuit protected by a ground-fault-circuit-interrupter (GFCI) and the heater trips the circuit, don't assume that the GFCI is malfunctioning. Since GFCI's are required to be installed at locations where leakage currents represent a severe shock hazard, you should discontinue using any heater which trips a GFCI and have the heater checked.

NEW CLASSES

The new crochet collar class is such a success we are going to start another collar class. This one will be collars made of material such as napkins, bun warmer cloths, etc.

Our teacher will be Ms Emily Gardner. Ms. Darlene Underwood, the home economist, will be here for the first demonstration class on Tuesday, Jan. 27 at 9 a.m. and will display samples she has made.

Come on Tuesday and participate in the planning of this class.

NEW HOURS

Because of our bus system, we will have to change the class and lunch hours. Morning classes will start at 9 a.m., lunch will be at 11:30 a.m., and afternoon classes will begin at noon.

We hope this does not inconvenience you, but we had to change our hours as our bus people were getting home after dark and had to be out too long for senior citizens.

COMING EVENTS

Our Advisory Council members and RSVP staff have voted to change holidays. We will be closed for Mardi Gras and open for George Washington's Birthday Feb. 16.

We will not have our regular meals on Washington's Birthday, so we will have a spaghetti lunch prepared by our staffs and volunteers and honor our volunteers and have a party with games and prizes.

Seating will be limited due to the size of our cafeteria. We will take 100 reservations, so please call Rosine Jushaway at 467-9292 or the RSVP office at 467-9204 to get your name in the pot.

KING CAKE

Ruth's Bakery in Choctaw Plaza donated a huge table size king cake for our seniors this week. Ms Viola Johnson got the baby - but there is no duplicating that cake! Thanks Ruth.

Community Services

Hire A Senior Citizen

Seniors Job Registry, Russell Youth Court Building, 126 Court St., Bay St. Louis offers placement services to employees and employers.

The registry is a free community service provided by National Council of Senior Citizens Senior Aides Program funded by the Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The registry attempts to place seniors 55-years-old or older in hourly, daily, weekly or monthly positions, according to Jim Widmark, coordinator.

Call 467-5077 for additional information. Office hours are 8 a.m. to noon Mondays through Fridays.

THRIFT STORE

Waveland Conference, St. Vincent de Paul Society operates a thrift store, Waveland Civic Center, Coleman Avenue, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays & Saturdays. Proceeds benefit needy regardless of race or religion. 467-0703.

ADULT EDUCATION

Adult Education classes are being offered at Gulfview Elementary School, Lakeshore; Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, Pearl-ington; Hancock North Central School, Kiln; and City-County Library, Bay St. Louis. Classes are designed to prepare adults for the GED exam. Applicants may enroll at any time during the school year. For information contact Philip Terrell, adult education supervisor, 533-7872 or 533-7303.

BLOOD PRESSURE

Retired Senior Volunteer Program sponsors free blood pressure testing Tuesdays, 9:30-11:30 a.m., American Legion Post No. 77, Waveland; 10 a.m.-noon, Hancock General Hospital; 11 a.m.-noon, RSVP office, Senior Citizens Center, Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis.

Gennin reviews rice program

Although lower rice carryover stocks are predicted for next season, county ASCS official Franklin A. Gennin says rice program participants will be required to reduce their 1987 plantings by 35 percent the same as in 1986.

USDA estimates this year's rice crop at 131 million hundredweight, 4 percent less than in 1985. However, 1986 rice yields are forecast at a record high, 5,626 pounds per acre.

"Farmers who participate in the 1987 program will help continue to reduce rice supplies," Gennin said.

For participating in the program, rice growers will be eligible for target price protection at $11.66 per hundredweight, and national average price support loans at $6.84 per hundred weight.

The estimated deficiency payment rate is $4.82 per hundredweight. Gennin said 30 percent of the projected deficiency payment will be available during signup.

Price support loans on 1987-crop rice will have a nine-month term beginning the first month after the loan is made. The loans may be repaid at any time during the nine months at the lesser of: 1) the loan rate or; 2) the higher of 50 percent of the loan level, or the world market price for rice when repayment is made.

Program participants will be required to limit their 1987 rice planted acreage to no more than 65 percent of the farm's rice base, and devote 53.85 percent of the farm's rice planted acreage to an acreage conservation reserve.

The ASCS official said generic commodity certificates will be available to producers selling rice or repaying price support loans when the world price for such rice is below the current loan repayment rate. The payment rate will equal the difference between the loan repayment rate and the world price for rice, and will be available on the quantity of eligible rice sold or redeemed.

Applications for the 1987 Rice Program may be filed at the local ASCS office.

State employees to host annual convention in Jackson

State Employees Association of Mississippi (SEAM) will hold its annual convention on Jan. 22 and 23 at Southwest Holiday Inn, Hwy.-80 West, Jackson.

Legislative reception begins at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 22.

State employees will be talking to their legislators concerning their 1987 legislative package.

Proposals include:
—Fund realignment/reallocation as recommended by State Personnel Board. Fund productivity at 5 percent (0-10 percent range) plus 5 percent cost of living increase. Fund longevity.

—Place a state employee on the State Personnel Board.

—Raise mileage rate from .20 to .22 cents per mile.

—Mandate the state to provide health and safety programs for state employees.

The Gulf Coast Chapter of Seam will be sending delegates to the convention.

ISN'T IT FUNNY HOW STEREO ADS ARE BORING UNTIL YOU WANT A STEREO?

We admit it. There are times when advertising isn't especially interesting.

For instance, stereo ads when you're not looking for a new stereo. Or insurance ads when you're not looking for a new insurance company. Or detergent ads when you're not looking for a new detergent.

But suppose your stereo breaks down. Or your insurance rates go up. Or your laundry comes out gray.

All of a sudden, stereo ads, insurance ads and detergent ads start looking a lot more interesting.

It's one of the basic truths of advertising. We try to be entertaining, but that's not really our job. Our job is to help you make the right choices when you're in the market for any kind of product or service.

Of course, when you're not in the market, we recognize that advertising may seem beside the point. In that case, you're free to pretend it isn't there.

In fact, you're free to ignore advertising for as long as you choose.

Right up until your stereo breaks down.

ADVERTISING.

ANOTHER WORD FOR FREEDOM OF CHOICE.

Five first-timers help make up NCA's top 10 female stylemakers list

The ballots are in from the 50,000 members of the National Cosmetology Association on the female celebrities who are most admired as far as style, beauty, personality, fashion and/or lifestyle are concerned.

Nancy Reagan

The ten were selected by the NCA members.

First timers on the Top 10 Stylemaker of the Year list are Connie Sellecca, Whitney Houston, Kim Novak, Michelle Lee and Gloria Loring.

It is the seventh year that First Lady Nancy Reagan has been featured on the list, the sixth year for Linda Gray, the fourth year for Joan Collins, the third year for Elizabeth Taylor and the second year for Cybill Shepherd.

Those who did not make the transition from last year's list were Diahann Carroll, Susan Lucci, Catherine Oxenberg and Priscilla Presley.

Each year association members select their favorite overall Stylemaker of the Year from the top ten list.

Lisa Hartman was selected the association's overall Female

Stylemaker for 1986, so was not eligible for selection this year.

Past national winners are: 1986, Donna Mills; 1984, Linda Evans; 1983, Olivia Newton-John; 1982, Stephanie Powers; 1981, Victoria Principal; 1980, Polly Bergen; 1979, Marie Osmond.

According to Richard M. Swinney, president of the National Cosmetology Association, personal grooming and fashion are an extension of our personalities.

The American public has chosen these ten most stylish women for their stylemaking images and influences on hair, fashion, makeup and lifestyle, he said.

From the Top Ten listing, the NCA membership will vote once more during December and January to select the 1987 Stylemaker of the Year, to be announced at the 1987 National Cosmetology Association Convention at the Town and Country Hotel, San Diego, July 19-22.

Television favorites round out list of 10 top male stylemakers

The ever-increasing influence of television on the lifestyles and the personal appearance of the American public is reflected in the list of the National Cosmetology Association's Top Ten Male Stylemakers of the Year.

Nine of the ten honorees are currently appearing on network television in regularly scheduled series.

James Brolin

The 50,000 members of the National Cosmetology Association were polled over the last several months and chose the following list of "Hollywood's finest" as the ten American male personalities who are trendsetters in the areas of personal grooming, fashion and/or lifestyle:

Bruce Willis (Moonlighting),

Pierce Brosnan

Patrick Duffy (Dallas), John Forsythe (Dynasty), Phillip Michael Thomas (Miami Vice), Lorenzo Lamas (Falcon Crest), James Brolin (Hotel), Michael J. Fox (Family Ties), Pierce Brosnan (Remington Steele), John James (The Colbys), and Tom Cruise.

From the top ten listing, the NCA membership will vote once more Tom Selleck, David Hasselhoff and in 1986 - Don Johnson.

Brosnan and Forsythe have appeared on the Top Ten list every year since the inception of the award in 1981. This is the third year for Brolin and the second for Fox, James and Thomas.

Dropped from last year's list are

Michael J. Fox

Tony Danza, Richard Gere and Sylvester Stallone. All former winners are ineligible for further consideration in the balloting.

According to Richard M. Swinney, president of the National Cosmetology Association, "The American public is very serious about its 'image makers'...the people they choose to emulate when it comes to fashion and personal grooming. These ten gentlemen are fine examples of the diversity of styles and approaches to achieving an 'American Look'. We salute them."

John Forsythe

during December and January to select the 1987 Stylemaker of the Year, to be announced at the 1987 National Cosmetology Association Convention at the Town and Country Hotel, San Diego, July 19-22.

This is the fourth year that NCA has selected its Male Stylemaker of the Year. Past winners have been

by DARLENE UNDERWOOD
Hancock County Extension Home Economist

Happy New Year! I hope your holidays were as wonderful as mine. Now they are just a memory and 1987 beckons us to make changes that will have a positive impact on our lives.

For many this may mean taking better care of themselves by eating right and starting an exercise program. Both of these resolutions can be accomplished by participating in two programs I will be offering in January and February.

Weight Off Wisely, a basic diet and exercise series, will be conducted on Thursday at 10:30 a.m. for six weeks at the Waveland Library.

The classes will consist of a weight-in, group discussion, short nutrition lesson and exercise.

This program has been conducted several times in the county and has been a tremendous success. Some women have lost 40-50 pounds over an extended period of time.

The exercises begin with a few repetitions and can be performed by those who haven't exercised in a while. The classes are free and no registration is required. An exercise mat will be needed beginning the second lesson.

BETTER EATING

The American Red Cross is offering a new course designed to teach families how to eat right. The Hancock County Extension Service and the Red Cross are offering the Better Eating for Better Health series of classes starting Thursday, Feb. 19 at 7 p.m. at the new Hancock Medical Center.

Working mothers, busy housewives and pregnant women should find the six-class series particularly helpful. Such topics as "How to Feed a Family Quick, Nutritional Meals," "Healthy Eating for Expectant Mothers," and "How to Feed a Picky Eater" are some of the variety of topics covered.

With today's health-conscious attitudes, people really want to know more about proper nutrition. People want to learn more than the four basic food groups.

This new Red Cross course goes into greater detail, yet shows how simple it is for busy families to coordinate their eating habits and have proper nourishment each day.

For more details about Better Eating for Better Health, or to register for the next series of classes contact Darlene Underwood at the Hancock County Extension Office, 467-5456.

Facts vs. Fantasy Food Quiz

Here's an interesting way to test your general knowledge about diets, nutrition, and "eating right." The questions were taken from the new Red Cross course Better Eating for Better Health.

Mark each statement true or false, and then check your answers.

- | | |
|-------|---|
| True | False |
| _____ | _____ 1. Being too heavy can affect your heart. |
| _____ | _____ 2. You have to give up snacks in order to lose weight. |
| _____ | _____ 3. A skinny child will grow up to a skinny adult. |
| _____ | _____ 4. Honey is healthier than sugar. |
| _____ | _____ 5. A combination of beans and either corn or rice is a good source of protein. |
| _____ | _____ 6. Children need nutrients that are different from the nutrients older people need. |

Check off which of these is "organic."

- | | |
|-------|--|
| _____ | A bean sprout saled with yogurt-cheese dressing. |
| _____ | Tuna |
| _____ | Lettuce and tomato on whole wheat bread. |
| _____ | All of the above. |
| _____ | None of the above. |

Answers:

1. True. There is a relationship between your weight and health of your heart. If you weigh too much, you have a greater risk of heart disease, as well as several other health problems.
2. False. You don't have to give up snacking to lose weight. It depends upon what kind of foods you're using as snacks. Nutritious, low-calorie snacks, such as fresh fruit, can help you lose weight by keeping your appetite under control.
3. False. Skinny children do not necessarily grow up to be skinny adults. Remember that the food choices you make for your children - the snacks you allow, the meals eaten out - all shape their eating habits for life.
4. False. Honey contains a type of sugar, fructose, which is a bit sweeter than table sugar, called sucrose. The differences are not important, and your body converts both to form glucose, another form of sugar.

5. True. You can obtain necessary protein from plant sources: beans, corn, rice, etc. But if these are your primary protein sources, it's important to eat them in the proper combination.

6. False. You will need the same nutrients throughout your life, so age is not a factor. However, you may need to change the amount of each nutrient in your diet during different stages of your life.

7. All of the above. All the foods listed in the question are "organic," since they come from living things.

We hope you enjoyed this food quiz and that you learned a few helpful facts that can improve the way you eat. Perhaps you would also enjoy taking the new course from the Red Cross, Better Eating for Better Health. It is a perfect source of diet and nutrition information, with sessions about—

- *Reducing the sodium, sugar, and fat in your diet.
- *Identifying eating problems and how to overcome them.
- *Planning meals for members of the family.
- *De-coding food labels.
- *Reducing your weight - and keeping it off.
- *Diet and such diseases as cancer, high blood pressure, and heart disease.

These and many more useful topics are covered in the course. For more details about Better Eating for Better Health or to register for the next series of classes, contact Darlene Underwood at the Hancock County Extension Office 467-5456.

Pass Carnival team lists fund raisers

The Cousins-Pendleton Team, King-Queen candidates for St. Paul's Carnival Association, Pass Christian, have scheduled a gala dance Saturday, Jan. 24, from 8 p.m. until in St. Paul's Gym, with music by the well known Passports of New Orleans.

The Passports' repertoire includes music from the 50's, 60's and 70's, as well as impressions of such superstars as the Blues Brothers, Elvis Presley and the Beach Boys. Admission is $5 per person, which entitles each person to $5 in "play money" or "funny money" for use in the casino that evening. There will be a cash bar, and Po-Boys and Pizzas will be on sale.

It's a Super Bowl and Bottle Party for the Cousins-Pendleton team Sunday, Jan. 25, starting at 1 p.m. at the home of Bernie and Pat Cousins, 448 Lover's Lane, Long Beach. (If you need directions, call 863-7314.)

There'll be multiscreens for viewing the game, and good food available.

Proceeds to St. Paul's.

American Legion Auxiliary Crafty Homemakers Extension Club

The American Legion Auxiliary 139 and the Crafty Homemakers Extension Club co-sponsors of the "Sing-a-long" at the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home visited the residents on Jan. 8.

Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano while Mrs. Roslyn Weathers led the singing and Mrs. Oris Planchard encouraged the residents to join in the singing.

Mrs. Geisenderfer, Director of Nursing, was pleased to see the warm welcome that was given to the visitors. She also thanked the Crafty Homemakers for mending, sewing of buttons, and repairs on the residents' clothing. Refreshments were served by the aforementioned groups.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 held their regular monthly meeting on Jan. 12 at the Legion home. Mrs. Mattie North, president, opened the meeting which was followed by the prayers said by the Chaplain, Mrs. Roslyn Weathers. The color bearers advanced the colors and the members recited the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the Preamble. Miss Agnes Wilkerson, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Mrs. Ana Brehm gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. North gave a brief resume of the Mid-Winter conference held in Jackson this past weekend. Among those attending the conference were Mrs. North, Margaret Prevon, Evelyn Burns, Roseann Thompson, Phyllis Moran, and Miss Agnes Wilkerson.

The Unit was presented belatedly a trophy for the Youth and Children program which Mrs. Pat Gillan was the chairlady. They also received a "special" recognition certificate for securing membership quota plus ten, and a certificate from the Kidney Foundation for their donation.

Miss Wilkerson gave her report on the Educational program where 11 colleges sent their representatives to talk to the high school seniors and parents. The parents were very enthusiastic in their praise of this program and how much help it was in helping the seniors in making a decision as to what school to select and the courses to take for their futures.

To the alling membership, and also those who are recuperating, the members send their prayers and best wishes for a complete and speedy recovery.

Unit 139 Seniors and Juniors

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139, Seniors and Juniors, wish to extend a belated Happy Birthday greeting to Little Miss Poppy, Joy Lynn Gillan.

During the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Mattie North, president, and Mrs. Hazel Wohlschlegel, VACS deputy, visited the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home and the Miramar Lodge Nursing Home and gave gifts to the veterans who live there.

Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association

Henrieta Caranna, court reporter for Chancellor William L. Stewart, was guest speaker for the Jan. 8 meeting of the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association held at the Beachfront Holiday Inn, Gulfport. Mrs. Caranna discussed proper reporting procedures.

Special recognition was given chapter members Kathy Allen and Billie Ruddick, who recently achieved Professional Legal Secretary (PLS) certification by passing an in-depth, two-day examination regarding all phases of the law.

A legal education quiz regarding correct word usage was given by Chairman Gloria Benedict.

The chapter's annual Bosses' Night will be held March 14 at the American Legion, Courthouse Road, Gulfport. Chairman Linda Smith announced the theme will be "Age of Aquarius." The chapter's boss of the year and legal secretary of the year will be announced during this event.

The NALS Official Course (Advanced), which is a comprehensive course regarding legal procedures, will be held March 10 through May 26, 6:30-9:30 p.m., at the Central Fire Station, downtown Gulfport. The cost is $65 for association members and $95 for non-members. The registration deadline is Feb. 13. For further information, contact co-chairmen Brenda Alexander, 864-6400, or Debbie Butler, 868-2821.

Chairman Theresa Lumpkin reported on the chapter's Christmas service project.

Chapter members voted to donate $100 to the National Legal Secretaries Association (NALS) Educational Trust Fund.

Chapter Governor Glenda Downs encouraged members to attend the Spring Board Meeting of the Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries to be held Saturday, Jan. 24, at the Park Inn International (formerly Ramada Inn), Hattiesburg. Activities for the day include educational and motivational seminars in addition to the business meeting.

Kathy Allen was elected alternate governor for the meeting. Members and guests may contact Mrs. Downs at 468-9408 (Pass Christian) for further information.

The Feb. 12 dinner meeting will be held at the Beachfront Holiday Inn, Gulfport, at 6:30 p.m. Persons employed in law offices and those engaged in work of a legal nature are encouraged to attend. Reservations may be made through Marsha Cox, 863-6702.

SCRAPBOOK PRESENTATION—Linda Henrie, Hancock County Exchange Club historian, presents to Club President Bob Hubbard a scrapbook collection of newspaper clippings on club activities.

Take Off Pounds Sensibly

TOPS No. 213 Pass Christian met Jan. 13. Top loser for the week was Adrienne Dedeaux. Kathy Eitterle received a charm for losing 10 pounds. Total loss for the club for the week was 19½ pounds. Weigh-ins are between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. The meeting is every Tuesday at the Pass Christian Library on Hiern Avenue between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.

The club welcomes anyone interested in weight control to come visit. For more information, please call Jeannie Livings at 452-9706 or Lois Van Kyke at 467-5162.

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club met Thursday, January 8 at the Hancock Bank Annex with Kay Chapman, president, presiding.

Mrs. Arnold Kleizer of Gulfport, a consulting Rosarian for District National Council of Flower Show Judges, presented a delightful program on the planting, caring and showing of roses.

Plans for the club's upcoming luncheon and style show were reported by Joy Lyons, committee chairman. She reminded the group that the club's luncheon and style show will be held on Wednesday, January 28 in the home of Dr. and Mrs. C.D. Taylor, at noon.

Jane Ann Fahey of the Princess Dress Shoppe, Bay St. Louis, will present a fashion show, "Cruising into Spring," showing both spring and cruise wear.

Jean Heibel was appointed chairman of the annual flower show which will be held on April 23.

The next meeting will be held on February 5 at 1 p.m. in the Hancock Bank Annex. Hostesses are Mrs. J. W. Hedgepath, Mrs. Alford Abana. Co-hostesses include Mrs. Mary Abley, Mrs. Leo Alle, Mrs. Phillip S. Ambler and Mrs. Claude W. Schneider.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. Perrot Sr. of New Orleans and Bay St. Louis celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary December 2 with a renewal of vows followed by a reception at the Vista Sheraton Country Club in New Orleans. The Perrots have four children, Mrs. Walter (Gail) Mayer of Chalmette, La.; Mrs. Raymond (Joan) Lepine of Bay St. Louis; Lloyd J. Perrot Jr. of New Orleans and Mrs. Robert (Patty) Barranman of Slidell, La. The couple has six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mormon Relief Society

The Relief Society, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints Waveland Ward, will conduct its monthly homemaking meeting Wednesday Jan. 21 at 6 p.m. at the Waveland chapel.

A short lesson entitled "Caring for Self and Family" will be given by Kay Jones of Bayou LaCrosse.

Two mini classes will follow:

'Child Safety & Protection' given by Robin Craft of Bay St. Louis and 'Space Saving Garden Ideas' by Belinda Jackson of Lakehurst.

A nursery will be provided for preschoolers 36 months and older show should bring lawn.

Women of all denominations and ages are welcome.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

TAX REFORM AND FARMING

Some of you have asked about how the new tax reform law will affect farmers. The new tax law is complex, and some farmers will probably find themselves paying more taxes while others may pay less.

Higher taxes are possible for some farmers because several major deductions for agriculture and other businesses were repealed in the tax reform legislation. The deductions Congress eliminated are the investment credit for property placed in service in 1986 and after, the 60 percent exclusion on net capital gain and income averaging.

Here is a view of the major changes in the tax law and how they might affect farmers. Keep in mind that some provisions are still unclear, and that Congress has the power to change laws and often does.

Investment Credit

Eliminating the investment credit effective this past January will affect farmers because many types of farm property qualify for the credit. Farmers as well as other businesses have used this credit in the past to reduce taxes.

One theory behind eliminating investment credit is that lower individual rates will offset losing the credit. This may be true, but some farmers may still pay more tax under the new law.

The loss of investment credit may particularly impact on farmers who had a little net income in 1986. The extent will depend on how much property the farmer has that qualifies for the credit.

Net Capital Gain

Beginning January 1, 1987 the sales of farm products will be taxed as ordinary income. Under current law, 60 percent of the sales that qualify for capital gains is exempt from taxes.

This change in the tax law is creating a lot of uncertainty among farmers. Some may be tempted to make sales of farm products, like timber for example, in 1986 while most of the gain from the sale is excluded from tax.

Our Extension economists are in general agreement that the tax change itself should not be the only thing to consider in selling farm products. The farmer's income needs, both now and in the future, as well as other factors should be taken into account.

Again, the extent to which an individual farmer is affected by the capital gains change depends on the amount of property the farmer has that qualifies for capital gains treatment.

Income Averaging

Income from farming can vary greatly from year to year. Although the loss of income averaging on Jan. 1 closes another tax benefit for farmers, only a small percentage of farmers have used it in the past.

Exactly how much an individual is affected by the loss of income averaging depends on how much income has varied in the last several years. Farmers whose income has varied greatly from year to year stand to lose more under the new law, while those with more stable year-to-year incomes may see little difference.

There are many other changes in the tax reform act, some positive and some negative. I suggest contacting a tax consultant before making major decisions on income tax management.

KNOW THE VALUE

Most farmers in Hancock County raise their own feed to winter cattle. The quality of that feed should concern every cattle producer.

There is a lot of variation in the nutritional value of feeds produced on farms. That makes it important for you to have samples of your feed analyzed. The Mississippi State University Forage Testing Service will do this.

Knowing the nutrient value of feed will keep you from overfeeding or underfeeding livestock. A forage test also will let you know if your harvesting and storage procedures are as good as they should be.

The forage testing service will analyze up to five samples, or $100 worth of forage analysis, each year at no charge. Contact our office for details.

ACORNS THREAT TO CATTLE

Acorns may taste good to cattle when feed is scarce, but they also can be deadly if enough is eaten.

Severe acorn poisoning may damage the kidneys, which usually kills the animal. The first signs are constipation, that quickly changes to diarrhea. Cattle also may appear bloated and show signs of abdominal pain.

The best cure is to keep cattle out of pastures and fields containing oak trees. Feeding hay or grain regularly also seems to lessen the problem. Ground limestone mixed in equal parts with salt neutralizes the poisons in acorns. In advanced cases, however, there may be so much kidney damage that death is certain. Contact our office if you suspect a problem.

Bay council seeks views on sales tax

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council wants to hear city residents' views on an additional one cent sales tax to reduce property taxes.
Bay residents' property taxes were recently increased to fund the city's portion of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District and necessary increases for the school district.
"Because of the possibility more revenue will be needed next year we have to decide whether to continue to fund wastewater and school district expenses with millage receipts or to reduce the millage by requesting a local and private legislative bill," Council James Thriffley said Tuesday at the council's regular meeting.

A one-cent increase in the sales tax would result in lower millage being paid by property owners.
Additional sales tax is being con-

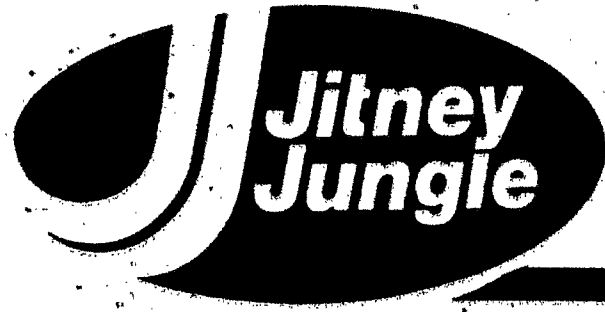

and before I knew it I was waiting in the car for a friend who had just taken a shotgun inside to rob a store," he said.
"I got the same 20-year sentence for armed robbery that my friend did," Kennie added.
Kennie also explained to the students about what it is like going to the penitentiary.
"When you first get there you have to take off all your clothes and be searched to make sure you are not carrying in drugs.
"They search every single place you could hide something and I mean everywhere.
"That was the most degrading and humiliating experience I have ever had and I will not ever forget it," Kennie said.

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council wants to hear city residents' views on an additional one cent sales tax to reduce property taxes.
Bay residents' property taxes were recently increased to fund the city's portion of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District and necessary increases for the school district.
"Because of the possibility more revenues will be needed next year we have to decide whether to continue to fund wastewater and school district expenses with millage receipts or to reduce the millage by requesting a local and private legislative bill," Council James Thriffley said Tuesday at the council's regular meeting.

A one-cent increase in the sales tax would result in lower millage being paid by property owners.
Additional sales tax is being con-

and before I knew it I was waiting in the car for a friend who had just taken a shotgun inside to rob a store," he said.
"I got the same 20-year sentence for armed robbery that my friend did," Kennie added.
Kennie also explained to the students about what it is like going to the penitentiary.
"When you first get there you have to take off all your clothes and be searched to make sure you are not carrying in drugs."
"They search every single place you could hide something and I mean everywhere."
"That was the most degrading and humiliating experience I have ever had and I will not ever forget it," Kennie said.

The Bay St. Louis City Council wants to hear city residents' views on an additional one cent sales tax to reduce property taxes.

Bay residents' property taxes were recently increased to fund the city's portion of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District and necessary increases for the school district.

"Because of the possibility more revenues will be needed next year we have to decide whether to continue to fund wastewater and school district expenses with millage receipts or to reduce the millage by requesting a local and private legislative bill," Council James Thriffley said Tuesday at the council's regular meeting.

A one-cent increase in the sales tax would result in lower millage being paid by property owners.

Additional sales tax is being con-

into a drug store for demoral before he got out of town, he was caught.

"I went to jail at age 19 but in the 16 months there all I learned was how to break into a drugstore real good," he added.

Kennie was out only a few months before he robbed another drug store. "This time it went right and I didn't get caught until I sold $120,000 of drugs to an undercover narcotics agent," he said.

Kennie went back to jail.

"When I got out this time first thing I did was get a six-pack of beer and before I knew it I was waiting in the car for a friend who had just taken a shotgun inside to rob a store," he said.

"I got the same 20-year sentence for armed robbery that my friend did," Kennie added.

Kennie also explained to the students about what it is like going to the penitentiary.

"When you first get there you have to take off all your clothes and be searched to make sure you are not carrying in drugs.

"They search every single place you could hide something and I mean everywhere.

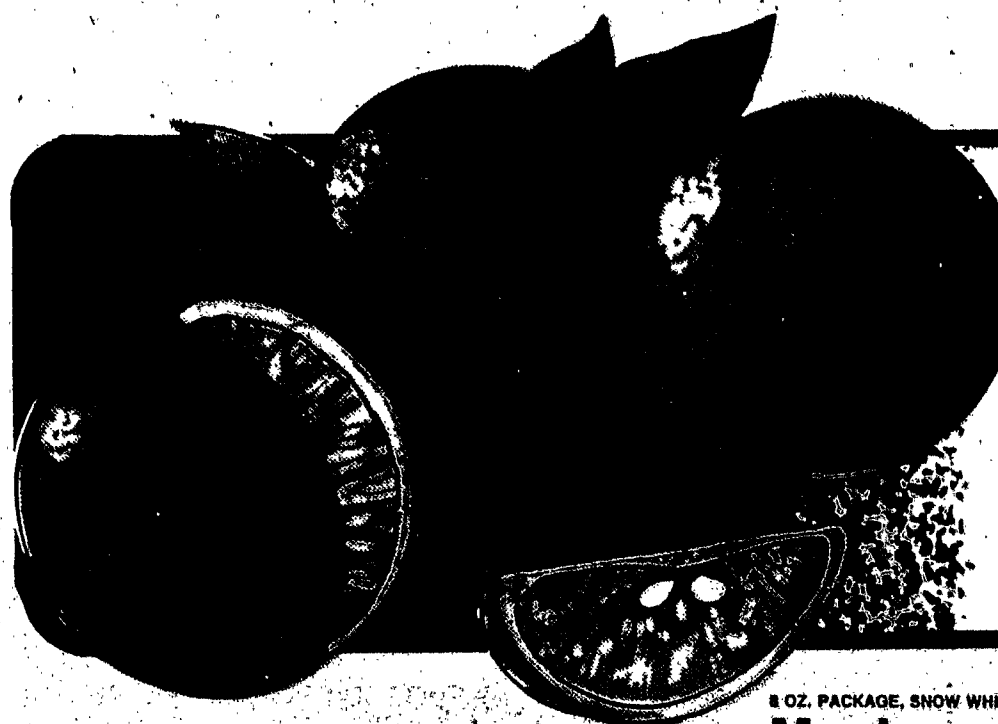

"That was the most degrading and humiliating experience I have ever had and I will not ever forget it," Kennie said.
